The Mount Rushmore Tram Accident | June 2, 1940

On this day in 1940, the infamous "tram accident" occurred, the only serious accident during the carving of Mount Rushmore.

Five men were riding to the top of the mountain when a screw came loose. At that point, the tram began to speed down the mountain. One man pulled the emergency brake with all of his might and broke it. Fearing a horrible crash, Happy Anderson dove out of the tram, hoping to land on the roof of the compressor shop, but missed and broke his arm and several ribs.

Flag Day | June 14

Flag Day commemorates the adoption of the flag of the United States, which happened this day by resolution of the Second Continental Congress in 1777.

Father's Day | June 19

Share Mount Rushmore with your dad on this special day.

Looking Ahead: Independence Day Celebration | July 3

Go to www.nps.gov/moru for a schedule of events.

Naturalization Ceremony | July 14 at 2 p.m.

Plan on attending this ceremony in the Amphitheater to witness over 50 people becoming American citizens.
